Why Attend

s37 of The Coroners and Justice Act 2009 places a statutory requirement for all coroners' officers and other coroners' staff to be trained

This study day will provide knowledge & understanding of mental illness and suicide and the perspective of the family. It will put the information in the context of the legal framework and procedural requirements of the coroners' investigation following the death of a person where mental illness may have been significant.

The day is suitable for any person working within or in association with the coroner service

Come along and find out about national guidance, share good practice and develop your professional network
